Q: My dentures are older and don't fit as good as they once did. How can I be sure my new ones will work as well as the old ones?

A: I have had many patients over the years feel the same way. A good start is finding a dentist with whom you feel comfortable discussing your concerns.

Ask The Dentist

I feel it is important to involve my patients in the treatment process. You should have a say in how the dentures look and work for you, using your old dentures as a guide.

Make sure that you have the ability to see what the dentures will look like and the ability to approve them before they are finished.
