by the denture base. Fortunately, there is a solution.

I can now make upper dentures that do not cover the palate and snap into place for retention. By eliminating the denture base that covers the roof of the mouth, the sense of taste now can return and the denture becomes more stable.

Life is too short to not enjoy its simple pleasures.

Q: Ever since I have worn my upper denture, I cannot taste things like I did before. Is there anything that can help me?

A: Loss of taste with an upper denture is fairly common when the roof of the mouth is covered
