

Dr. Ron Dillow

Q: I think I have neglected my teeth so long that I may lose them. I am afraid to go to a dentist because I am afraid of what might happen. I need some advice.

A: I understand how you feel. I have met many patients over the years who felt exactly like you are feeling right now.

Ask The Dentist

The first step is to find a dentist that you trust and feel better talking to. Do not start treatment until you feel comfortable on a personal level with the office.

The next step is to discuss all of your concerns so the dentist can create a plan for you that meets your expectations and a way to get things back to the way you want them.

For most patients, there will be more than one way to solve the problems. Make sure that you have options presented along with the costs prior to agreeing to start.
