Q: I chipped a corner off of one of my front teeth. The repair job keeps coming off. What can I do to make this last?

A: It can be frustrating having the same thing done over and over without success. It sounds like the bond of the filling is failing.

There are several reasons for this: poor bond strength, heavy bite, clenching or grinding your teeth are a few. Each one of these must be examined thoroughly.

If the missing corner is large, something other than bonding may be needed to create a more long term success.
